Reuben Ingber

333 East 95th Street Apt. 4A
New York, N.Y. 10128

M 347.539.1524

reuben.ingber@gmail.com
www.ReubenIngber.com
@ReubenIngber

Experience

Front-End Developer, ExpandTheRoom – 2013-2015
- Developed a variety of custom web projects for clients like Rolling Stone Magazine, US Magazine, Men's Journal, and Scholastic Books.
- Responsible for turning wireframes and comps into working websites and web applications.
- Developed dozens of custom templates for the recently relaunched RollingStone.com
- Developed more than a dozen custom hubs for USMagazine.com
- Built several custom Wordpress and static websites.

Host and Creator, How to Hold a Pencil – 2013-Present
- How to Hold a Pencil (howtoholdapencil.com), is an interview podcast featuring self-taught developers and designers. The show has more then 1,000 listeners per week.
- Designed and developed website and email templates to promote the show.
- Scheduled dozens of interviews with guests like Chris Coyier, Debbie Millman, and more.

Front-End Developer & Designer, Assembly Member Brian Kavanagh – 2013-2014
- Designed and developed a series of websites and emails for a variety of projects for Assembly Member.
- Designed dozens of graphics for Facebook & Twitter.
- Developed new responsive web sites for State Legislators Against Illegal Guns and the New York State Caucus of Environmental Legislators

Front-End Developer, Freelance – 2012-Present
- Worked with a variety of for-profit and non-profit organizations to create custom websites.
- Clients include Matan Kids, Temple Emanu-El of Closter N.J., Elsa Isaac, American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC), New York State Caucus of Environmental Legislators, Elsa Isaac and more.

Part-Time Blog Editor, Repair The World – 2013-2014
- Developed a new tagging architecture to organize content for redesigned website
- Organized an archive of more then a 1,000 pieces of content.
- Managed and edited content for the Repair the World Blog.

Senior Legislative Assistant, American Israel Public Affairs Committee – 2010-2013
- Responsible for managing the development and maintenance of the Opinion Leaders Database, a proprietary web application used to track legislation and legislators.
- Worked with a team of internal and contract developers to completely overhaul the application to produce version 2.0.

Skills

Responsive Design & Development, HTML5, CSS3, Javascript, Less, Sass, jQuery, PHP (mostly Wordpress related), Shopify, Siteleaf, Twig templating, Liquid templating, Git, Grunt, Cross Browser Testing, Email Development, Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator, Mailchimp

Education

George Washington University, Washington D.C. – MA, Legislative Affairs, 2012
University at Albany, Albany, N.Y. - BS, Public Policy, 2010